

The Journal of Negro Education, Volume 53, No. 3 (Summer 1984)

An Assessment of Black Studies Programs in American Higher Education

Table of Contents

Editorial Note	199
Carlene Young, Guest Editor
Intellectual Questions and Imperatives in the Development of Afro-American Studies	201
Russell L. Adams
Black Studies and Global Perspectives: An Essay	226
St. Clair Drake
Black American Educational Interests in the Era of Globalism	243
Locksley Edmondson
The Paradox of Separate and Unequal: African Studies and Afro-American Studies	257
Guy Martin and Carlene Young
Critical Issues in Black Studies: A Selective Analysis	268
Alan K. Colón
Classifying Black Studies Programs	278
Carlos A. Brossard
The Legacy of W. E. B. Du Bois for Contemporary Black Studies	296
James B. Stewart
Academic Library Support for Black Studies Programs: A Plea to Black Studies Faculty and Administrators	312
Denise M. Glover
Applied Black Studies: Adult Education in the Black Community—A Case Study	322
James N. Upton
The Role of Black Studies Scholars in Helping Black Students Cope with Standardized Tests	334
J. Owens Smith

Computers and Black Studies: Toward the Cognitive Revolution	341
Melvin K. Hendrix, James H. Bracy, John A. Davis and Waddell M. Herron
Systematic and Thematic Principles for Black Studies	351
Perry A. Hall
Toward a New Role and Function of Black Studies in White and Historically Black Institutions	359
Delores P. Aldridge
The Struggle and Dream of Black Studies	368
Carlene Young

Cover: Rear view of Founders Library, Howard University. Photograph by Brian V. Jones, Washington, DC.